SENTENCE SERMON

There are three means of believing—by inspiration, by reason, and by custom. Christianity, which is the only rational institution, does yet admit none for its sons who do not believe by inspiration. Nor does it injure reason or custom, or debar them of their proper force; on the contrary, it directs us to open our minds by the proofs of the former, and to confirm our minds by the authority of the latter.—Pascal.

LAST NIGHT THERE WAS A DANCE IN TOWN!

One hundred fifty soldiers from Camp Stewart, in the wilds of Liberty County, were the guests of Stateboro and Bulloch County. They came up here over roads that are without equal in the State of Georgia for roughness.

One hundred fifty soldiers picked from more than 1,500. Men selected because they like to dance. Men who have been on the post or in the field for days without any form of relaxation. Men hard at work preparing themselves for the defense of our nation. Behind that dance went a lot of planning. Co-operative planning between the Service Committee in Stateboro and the Morale Officers at Camp Stewart.

At a meeting held at Camp Stewart on last Friday afternoon more than fifty people met and heard the problems of maintaining the morale of the soldiers at that camp at a high standard. Representatives from communities all over South Georgia were present. They exchanged ideas of how the people in their communities—small communities like ours—are meeting these problems of entertaining the men in uniform.

Some are having the soldiers in their homes for a week-end. Some provide picnics for groups of soldiers. Some are providing community sings. Some putting on dances like the one we had here last night. But they are all shooting at the same problem—trying to make the men happy.

This is a tremendous problem. The morale officers at Camp Stewart are to be congratulated upon the manner in which they are succeeding. The communities are to be commended upon the whole-hearted support they are giving the program.

The Statesboro Committee will be calling upon us to help them in helping the officers at Camp Stewart with entertaining the men at that camp. When they do ask our help, let's all pitch in and do our bit.

'V' STANDS FOR VICTORY!

Not long ago the sign "V" began making its appearance everywhere in the countries crushed under the heels of Hitler. Soon the British took it up. "V" for Victory. Now it is in the United States. One sees it in the newspapers, seen it pinned on the dresses and hats of our ladies. "V" for Victory. It's everywhere.

And now it appears in an unexpected place. On the highways of our state. Soldiers away from their camps standing on our highways holding up their hand with the first and third fingers forming the letter "V."

At a meeting of the morale officers, together with committees from this section of Georgia, held last Friday at Camp Stewart, it was learned that one of the small things that the men in the service appreciated most is to be offered a ride when they are trying to get from the camp to town or to the home of their friends, or just wanting to see the country.

You and I see these soldiers standing on the highways every week-end. We pass them with our back seats empty. Why can't we pull up to a stop and ask these boys if we might give them a lift?

We have learned that there are post regulations which prevent soldiers from "hitch-hiking" on the highways. But there is no regulation preventing a civilian with an empty seat in his car from pulling up alongside of the highway and offering a soldier or soldiers a ride.

When you see a soldier or a couple of soldiers standing beside the highway give them a lift. If, for some reason, you can't pick them up, or if you are just going to the edge of town, or if your car is loaded, hold your hand out and form the letter "V" with the second and third fingers. The soldiers will understand and appreciate it—he'll even return the sign.

Try it, remembering that these are the boys who are making it possible for you to be able to drive your car. You sort of owe it to them.

'DON'T TAKE WOODEN NICKELS'

THERE IS AN old saying advising people, "Don't take any wooden nickels."

Multiply this by one hundred and four hundred and it becomes, "Don't take any wooden five dollars" and "Don't take any wooden twenty dollars." Recently there has been a little flurry in counterfeiting currency in Stateboro. Five-dollar bills and twenty-dollar bills.

Be careful when you take in bills of these denominations. If even a small degree of caution is taken the bill can be detected. The twenties are "gold certificates," that is, the serial numbers and the seal are "printed" in gold. They show a marked degree of discoloration as though they had been sent through the wash. They have that "smooth" dead feel which is different from the "rough" feel of the real bill.

When in doubt about a bill take it to your bank and make sure. When you take it in over your counter and can't remember from whom you took it the loss becomes yours.

So "don't take any wooden nickels."

A PLACE WELL FILLED

THE APPOINTMENT of Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, to be Federal District Judge for the Southern District of Georgia pleases us as much as it pleases his many friends in this county.

Judge Lovett was nominated to this high position by Senator Walter F. George. Recognizing the fine work of Senator George during the time he piloted the lend-lease bill through the Senate as Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and the Senator's skillful handling of the recent tax bill, the largest in the nation's history, as head of the Finance Committee, the President evidently found it highly essential to recognize whomsoever Senator George nominated.

And Senator George is to be commended upon nominating the man who so well answers the qualifications demanded by the position he is to fill.

... But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong

FOR ONE HOUR on Monday of last week we were a "proud page." At the Rotary club's Father-Son day we borrowed Bobby Donaldson, the son of Robert Donaldson, the city and county's number one press agent. We could not have done so but very little more proud of Bobby than we believe we would have been proud of a son of our own. (And we'll have no cracks from the side lines and galleries.)

IT WAS A GREAT day for all the fathers in the Rotary club with sons. And it was just as great a day for the sons. Big sons and little sons.

And don't ever let anyone tell you that the young people are going to the dogs. They are not. They are coming! We'll take up our bat any time anywhere for them. Every one of the thirty-two sons present at that meeting was the son of his father ordered out of the book. Every one of them, from "Skipper" Alfred, the youngest son of Arthur Turner, the oldest son present, was a perfect gentleman. Every mother who says her son is a "young savage" may know that when he goes to the Rotary club he becomes a "gentleman . . ."

It was a great meeting for the Rotarians and one that will long be remembered.

Monday of this week the members of the Rotary club let a farmer of Bulloch county enter into his consciousness. It was "Farmers' Day," at the club, and a part of the club's program to bring the city and the farm closer together.

THE INTERNAL revenue man was in to see us this week. We were highly flattered but we sort of lost our wind when he presented us with some sort of legal looking document and stated that we owed Uncle Sam $152. Now Uncle Sam is one man for whom respect and when one of his "nephews" with the "credentials" come to pay us a visit we don't mess around with no questions. It becomes our honored guest, and we killed the fatted calf, even if it amounts to no more than $152. We paid, with a smile on our face, and we asked him to make himself comfortable and offered him our favorite pipe to smoke and two soft drinks. We invited him in the fall to go quail shooting out at our country place. He was very nice. When he left, we sorta relaxed and got to thinking and realized that he did not say a word, just took our check and sat there while we talked our fool head off. Oh, well! He didn't take us off with him, and that's something.

WE HAVE three new members in our "Whodunit" club. Ruth Sewell has joined up and the "Skipper," our brother, and Martha Wilma Simmons. The Skipper, down in bed with a misplaced boil, picked up one of our "Whodunits" and began reading. He became so engrossed in it that he forgot his boil—well, he forgot it a little bit. Martha Wilma is now a "Bride" and has become an enthusiastic member. The entire membership of "Whodunits" now includes Dr. C. M. Carlson, Mrs. Maude Edge, Mrs. Ruth Sewell, The Skipper and Martha Wilma Simmons. Any one may join who loves mystery novels. Come to our office at any time and you'll find a bunch of "Whodunits." If you have a bunch of them in and let us exchange with you. Be sure to put your name in your book so that each reader who becomes a member of our club may know whose book he or she is reading.

Lieut. Jim Coleman Writes . . . An Air Corps Cadet's First Day

Saturday, Sept. 6, at Maxwell Field there was a new kind of activity. It was a sight to see. Approximately 683 aviation cadets from all points on the compass arrived here to enroll at the Air Corps Replacement center, the first of its kind in the United States. In the future all cadets accepted for training will report here for duty, and then sent to the various schools.

The replacement center will serve as a conditioning and processing station for all cadets in the Southeast, and with its activities, five weeks will be added to the former thirty-week Air Corps pilot training program. Rookie cadets will be processed, instructed in military drill, put in a physical shape, and generally seasoned before they are allowed to begin actual flying training.

Imagine, if you will, yourself in the shoes of one of these raw aviation cadets? You step off the train in a strange city, dressed in a suit to kill. As you step off the train platform you are met by soldiers who conduct you to an army camp truck waiting outside the station. The truck is a far cry from the town car you used to ride in. You ride away from the station toward Maxwell Field, going at the sky full of airplanes. Your foremost thought is, "Soon I will be up there flying one of those big machines." You arrive at the big gate at Maxwell Field. "So off your light and fall into the arms of your cadet headquarters, you are instructed to remove your baggage from the truck. The officer in charge then divides you into squads of ten. You then place your baggage on the ground where you are now standing. Your next step is to the receiving room where you get your baggage tags, then to the medical board for examination, and a physical check-up. After being checked over by dozens of doctors you are now ready for the quarters where you will receive a uniform. You undress and hope to goodness they will give you one that fits. They are now ready for your first drill. Can you imagine doing all this before you have time to catch your breath? You do, though, and by now you are completely worn out, and wondering if you have done the right thing by joining the Air Corps.

After the drilling period you are given a set of etiquette rules for use in the mess hall. They tell you how to eat your soup, how to talk, and how to behave. Family Health Chat

Can you tell a malaria mosquito from other types of mosquitoes? Because of the danger of being bitten by the malaria-carrying variety of mosquito, the State Department of Health describes this type of mosquito as a group that may be recognized by the fact that the head and body are of the same color.

HOUSEWIVES USED BY HOME AGENT TO STOP FOOD WASTES

"With every rise in food prices, the army of thrifty home-makers gets more recruited by Home Demonstration Agent Miss Irma Spears. "And, today, stopping unnecessary wastes of food at the home is a big step in the nationwide movement to conserve."

She declared that department of agriculture home economists point out that food wastes happen every day. They list here some of the ways that such wastes may be prevented.

"Groundwork for much waste is laid in unplanned shopping," they point out. "Wise buyers save their shopping plans in advance and they learn to make sure of getting their money's worth by checking both quality and quantity of everything they buy."

"Improper storage is another food thief. Any food keeps better if it is stored the right way. For instance, leftover at and drippings can be used again. But they must be stored in a cold, dry place. Otherwise, they'll not only spoil but they'll be a health hazard."

"Some of the most obvious food wastes occur when food is being prepared for cooking. Cases in point are potatoes peeled too thick—orange and lemon only partially squeezed—outside leaves of lettuce or cabbage thrown away as a matter of habit."

"Poor cooking and serving can cause a great many other food wastes. Indirectly, they may be the reason that the family leaves much food uneaten on the plate. Burned food can be a total loss. Meat cooked at too high a temperature shrinks more than it should in the process, thus reducing the number of servings per pound of meat you buy or raise. If vegetables are improperly cooked, valuable vitamins may go off into this air. And if the water in which vegetables have been cooked is thrown away, both vitamins and minerals may go along with it."

SAVING GARDEN SEED A considerable amount of seed is needed for the production of a good home garden throughout the year. Here are some recommendations for the saving of many of these seeds. It is not practical to save seed at home from all of the seed at home from all of the vegetable crops grown but many may be saved and, with a little care in selection and storage, better seed may be had for the next season.

Among those that may be profitably saved from the home garden are asparagus, beans, lima beans, corn, cucumber, egg plant, kale, lettuce, cantaloupe, mustard, okra, pepper, potatoes, Irish and sweet, radish, spinach, squash, tomatoes, watermelons and cucumbers.

Rotarians and Lions Enjoy Fun Programs

Two of Statesboro's civic clubs strayed from the usual last Monday as local Lions and Rotarians lapsed to programs designed to make the most of the trials and tribulations attached to the task of making a living.

With their regular program broken down, the Lions turned to Gordon Franklin, president, and Kermit R. Carr for an emergency program. Kermit pulled from the grab bag a reversed quiz program. His quiz was designed so that instead of paying the club member the club member paid the club for being unable to answer the question asked.

In this manner, the club's treasury picked up more than a dollar in its members' larry answers.

Larry Palmer, secretary of the Savannah Lions club, and John Litcher, of Savannah, were visitors at the Lions club for its regular program Monday night.

The part fun and frivolity play in their lives, placed D. B. Turner in charge of their program and he turned up with a musical program featuring Zack Henderson and Mrs. Henderson. Zack astonished his fellow Rotarians by performing on the mouth organ. Mrs. Henderson played the xylophone and an instrument she called a "to-nette." She sang several selections.

Lieut. W. A. Amason, Dr. O. F. Whitman and Coach Red Tyson were guests of the club.

Chamber of Commerce Hears Dickie

Before a group of Statesboro's leading business men, at a meeting of the chamber of commerce here Tuesday, L. P. Dickie, manager of the southeastern division of the National Chamber of Commerce, stated that the average person in the average city was not yet aware that the United States is in the midst of a national emergency.

Mr. Dickie met with the local chamber and outlined the policy of the national organization. He stated that the organization is on a crusade on behalf of the small business men of the nation who have no opportunity to take a part in the national defense program.

In outlining the things the organization is advocating, Mr. Dickie said: "The National Chamber of Commerce has been advocating a national defense program since 1933. We called for the same program then that the nation is now trying to put into effect overnight."

"We are for a moratorium in industrial strife. We advocate higher taxes and taxes on a broader base."

"We are for economy in government in non-defense activities. We are for the modification of the powers of bureaus, commissions, etc."

"We are for local organizations taking a greater interest in local education institutions."

"And last we are for the study of post-war adjustment."

Mr. Dickie urged the local chamber of commerce to "accept affiliation with the national organization and pointed out the advantages of such a move. The club will take up the matter at a later meeting."

Hobson DuBoise, vice-president, presided in the absence of Byron Dyer, president.

1942 AAA Program To Be Explained

The details of the 1942 AAA program will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Bulloch county chapter of the Farm Bureau in the court house Friday night, Fred G. Blitch, president, announced.

J. D. Fields, AAA district supervisor, will lead the discussion on the 1942 program. Mr. Blitch stated that every week sheet signed by the farmer at this meeting and to learn as soon as possible the requirements of the program. He pointed out that it was now time for some of the fall plantings and that the AAA program carried several items of importance in the planting of winter legumes and small grains.

"Building the P. B. Y. Record Book" is the free educational material picture for the program. This is a detailed picture of the construction practices in building the patrol bomber flying boats.

Every important step in the process is included, from the fabrication of small parts to testing the finished ship. The picture will start at 8 p.m.

Bulloch Gins 5,529 Bales of Cotton From the 1941 Crop

On Sept. 1, Bulloch county had ginned 5,529 more bales of cotton from the 1941 crop than on the same date of the 1940 crop.

According to a report of the department of commerce, the census, Washington, 5,529 bales of cotton were ginned in this county from the 1941 crop, prior to Sept. 1. This compares with 4,900 bales on the same date in 1940.

3,000 Bulloch County Families Make 4,700 New Mattresses

If Dame Rumor has her way, Bulloch county would soon be taking care of more than 3,000 British children.

According to the rumor, every family in Bulloch county, which has benefited under the Surplus Marketing Administration mattress program would have an English child in its home.

Of course Dame Rumor is wrong and so we'll not be having any British children in Bulloch county. Not yet, at any rate.

But in spite of the rumor, more than 3,000 families in the county have made more than 4,700 new mattresses under the program which began last fall, using more than 475 bales of surplus cotton.

According to J. A. Brannen, in charge of the mattress program now under way at the local army, fifty pounds of cotton go into each mattress made. The SMA furnishes all the cotton, the ticking, thread, sewing machines, and other equipment necessary to make the mattresses. The program does the actual work under expert supervision.

Mr. Brannen states that as many as thirty-five mattresses can be made at one time. A small gin comes from a regular cotton bale. This operation is to loosen the lint which comes tightly compressed from the bale. Ten sewing machines are used to sew the ticking. The army is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for families to make the
